• Short Description of Conducted Activity:

Session I - Discussing about Criteria I to IV

Session II - Discussing about Criteria V to VII

First of all, Dr. Shubhangi Mane welcomed the Resource person and all staff and also explained the outline of the program. Then C. S. Kamble has introduced the Resource Person in detail. In the first and second session of the workshop Resource Person Assi. Prof. Geeta S. Shete highlighted the following points:-

1. Data Collection: Gather comprehensive data on various aspects of the institution's functioning, including teaching and learning, research, infrastructure, governance, student services, and community engagement. This data may include academic performance, faculty qualifications, infrastructure improvements, and more.
2. Self-Assessment: Engage in a rigorous self-assessment process. Evaluate the institution's strengths and weaknesses in different areas, based on the collected data. This self-reflection is essential for identifying areas that require improvement.
3. Feedback Gathering: Seek feedback from various stakeholders, including students, faculty, parents, alumni, and the community. Their perspectives and suggestions provide valuable insights into the institution's performance and areas needing attention.
4. Documentation: Prepare a comprehensive AQAR report following the NAAC's format and guidelines. Include all relevant data, self-assessment findings, feedback, and details of quality enhancement initiatives undertaken during the academic year.
5. NAAC Submission: Submit the AQAR report to the NAAC within the specified timeframe. Ensure that all required documentation, including the self-study report, is complete and accurate.
6. External Peer Review: The NAAC conducts an external peer review of the AQAR and the institution's self-study report. A team of assessors visits the institution to verify the information and assess the institution's quality.
7. NAAC Assessment: NAAC assesses the AQAR and other documents and assigns an accreditation grade/rating based on the institution's performance in various criteria. The institution's accreditation status is determined by this assessment.

The Chair Person Dr. N. R. Gavali encouraged the Resource Person and told him to deal with AQAR NAAC and at the end M. B. Mujawar thanked the Resource Person, Chair Person, Teaching, and non-teaching staff.
